12:07:15   From Alexandre Villares : 4

12:08:35   From Steve Earth : what is an "examiner" (that term is unfamiliar in usa)

12:11:27   From Jane Waite (she/her) : we have several main organisations who run our country wide exams for students at 16 and 18

12:11:59   From Jane Waite (she/her) : OCR, AQA for example

12:12:50   From Jean Salac (she/her) : ^Like the OWLs and NEWTs exams from Harry Potter ;)

12:13:06   From Jane Waite (she/her) : teachers who are at very well respected for these examinations help out on examining these

12:13:07   From Steve Earth : ah, now it makes sense!

12:13:14   From Jane Waite (she/her) : its a big deal

12:15:08   From Julie M. Smith, CSEdGrad, she/her : LOL, Jean, everything I know about the UK education system I learned from HP.

12:15:53   From Steve Earth : same ^

12:16:46   From Jane Waite (she/her) : Hewlett Packard?

12:17:52   From Steve Earth : HarryPotter….

12:22:12   From Neil Thawani : PLTW uses Master Teachers too, don't they?

12:22:37   From Neil Thawani : Raspberry Pi's CoderDojo uses 'champions' for their dojos. I like that term more.

12:29:55   From Jane Waite (she/her) : https://www.computingatschool.org.uk/

12:30:05   From etheltshukudu : Thanks Jane

12:30:35   From Jane Waite (she/her) : We don't have master teachers as such any more... not new ones... we have community leaders and other "titles"

12:34:29   From Benji Xie (UW Seattle, he/him) : https://padlet.com/sue181/j93amet2kvqreguc

12:34:33   From Neil Thawani : Neat.

12:48:58   From Renee Fall : Based on your vast experience and research, what would you say are areas where future research on CS PD are most needed?

12:49:50   From Jane Waite (she/her) : https://teachcomputing.org/

12:50:14   From Jane Waite (she/her) : https://suesentance.net/

12:50:26   From Renee Fall : Thank you!
